Magellan Hill Adds to Healthcare Presence by Signing Cooper University Hospital in Camden as a Client

HADDONFIELD, N.J. – Telecommunications management and consulting company Magellan Hill Technologies, LLC, said Tuesday that it has contracted with Cooper University Hospital to provide all voice services, including dedicated local and long distance, to its Camden, N.J. facility.

Founder and CEO Brad Bono said the agreement with Cooper University Hospital is another example of the kind of deal on which Magellan is focusing in 2011 — large strategic partners who hire Magellan to manage their voice and data needs.

"We are pleased to add Cooper University Hospital to our growing stable of healthcare providers, which includes major facilities, as well as many smaller healthcare centers and providers," Bono said. "Healthcare is a vital field both locally and nationally, so our growth in this arena typifies the kind of network reliability and customer service we provide our customers. Above all, healthcare providers need reliability and excellent customer service, as well as affordability from their communications management provider. Magellan Hill brings all that to the table."

Cooper University Hospital is the leading provider of comprehensive health services, medical education and clinical research in Southern New Jersey and the Delaware Valley. As the clinical campus of the University of Medicine and Dentistry of New Jersey – Robert Wood Johnson Medical School at Camden, the hospital is committed to excellence in medical education, patient care and research.
